Importance of Life Skills

"Low-Skilled adults earn significantly less money than their better-skilled counterparts, have poorer health outcomes and are more likely to depend on public assistance." OECD and PIACC Skills Survey

"The top things pollsters feel left in the dark on included how to invest, long-term financial planning, and the best ways to manage their student loan debt. A further three in 10 regret not learning how to budget." Business & Money, Lifestyle, Real Life. SWNS Digital

More American's are going further into financial debt than ever before and experiencing lower credit scores. "Thirty-seven percent (37%) of Americans are either struggling or in crisis when it comes to their money – up three percentage points from last quarter and 15 points from January. Just under half (45%) of Americans said they have at least $1,000 in savings, and over a third (36%) have no savings at all." Ramsey Solutions.

Youth need to be taught how to manage, budget and invest money along with several other crucial life-skills such as interview skills, elevator pitch, stress management and healthy nutritional habits. All these areas and so many more are essential to promote a healthy life style.
